CERTIFICATION - Aras is Only Enterprise PLM to Achieve Windows Server Certification

Aras has now become the only enterprise PLM solution to ever achieve Windows Server Certification.

In December Aras Innovator was successfully certified for the new Windows Server 2008 operating system by Microsoft. In the process we became one of the first 10 systems worldwide to achieve the certification as well.

We subjected Aras Innovator to Microsoft's most stringent platform requirements to further validate the technology leadership of the Aras enterprise SOA solutions. Windows Server certification includes approximately 100 test cases that independently confirm scalability, reliability, and security on the Microsoft platform.

We would like to thank everyone in the corporate community that contributed to this accomplishment, and we feel that the certification further demonstrates the innovation advantage that the Microsoft open approach delivers.

FEATURED - Aras Launches New Collaborative Community Project Site

This month we launched a new collaborative community project site based on Aras Innovator!

We used Aras Innovator itself to replace the simple 3rd party system we had before. By doing so we are taking advantage of Aras Innovator to serve as the basis for our own community collaborative development projects.

The new Aras Innovator Community site supports:

- Web-based Solution File Upload & Download
- Grouping of Multiple Project Versions (Builds)
- Document & File Association with a Project
- Integrated Forums for Project-specific Q&A
- Project Ratings and Reviews

The new site is representative of the innovative applications that you can create using Aras Innovator. It's easy. All it took was one person to create the site and get it up & running in a few afternoons over the holiday break.

Think about it... wouldn't your IT group like to have an online collaborative development site for their own internal development projects?
